🔑 Literary style of NT prophecy is 'epitome', a res gestae chrono

It uses anaphora keywords to tag future trends, eg παρουσία=Advent, see pics

NT writer plots his anaphora in syllable counts +7, to show Divine use of events

The image displays four separate windows of the Accordance software, each showing a different edition of the New Testament text for Matthew 24:25-28. The editions shown are:

- Matthew 24:25 - Nestle-Aland Greek Text with English Interlinear: Shows the Greek text with its corresponding English translation below it.
- Matthew 24:25 - Nestle-Aland Greek Text with English Interlinear (2nd ed.): A second version of the same edition, likely a later update or edition.
- Matthew 24:25 - Nestle-Aland Greek Text with English Interlinear (3rd ed.): A third version of the same edition.
- Matthew 24:25 - Nestle-Aland Greek Text with English Interlinear (4th ed.): A fourth version of the same edition.

Each window includes a sidebar with various study tools and resources. The text is presented in a clear, readable font, with some words highlighted in yellow or red, likely indicating specific theological or historical points of interest.

🔑 Why The Jews?

Bible shows Abraham & kids often have close relations w kings, bc they are VERY good at services kings need. So a jealous populous, attacks Jews

So Jews learn, 'Goy1 hates Goy2, be nice to both & stay alive'. Ergo,

This evil was most evident, in France. Since Charlemagne, kings used mass anti-semitism to claim Jews Royal property, as 'protection'

Yet every few decades, king expels & takes their property. Soon, his economy tanks;

Pre-1571, Jews were often expelled from German lands, swayed by Luther's anti-Jew diatribes; they found refuge in fractious France, esp w Huguenots

...

Result? 1598 Edict of Nantes, limited free-faith

So Jews & France recover, juste à temps for 30 Yrs' War & its bloody siblings

🔑 APPENDIX 🔑

HOW-TO & SYLLABUS

Calc meter by hand. Syllabify by grammar & dialect when book written, eg AD30 Matthew uses Hebraisms, Chap1; so his κυριος is 2 sylls not 3

Parse ms by clause, à la pics; resolve variants by grammar, style & meter

After dozens of clauses, one should see author's meter theme

Sample: Matt24's is Talmud San97-99 recon, pre- & post Church; so
1673-63=1610, balances to 'Messiah 2000' 2nd voting period, pic2

Meter § ends +7, in a text-interactive theme: else syll counts are wrong/incomplete

Once comfortable w/ metering & how it interacts w/ text, THEN search history to see what the text tags

Just as meter independently parses by grammar (etc), tagged historical events fit like puzzle pieces in a coherent 'picture', the text paints

Anaphora, also +7, depict trends

The image displays four screenshots of a digital interface for "Anaphora Keyword Search" across four different chapters of the Bible: Matthew 24-25. Each screenshot shows a grid of historical events with various tags applied to them, such as "Anaphora", "Historical", "Event", "Text", and "Text Tag". The events are listed with their corresponding verse numbers and descriptions. The interface includes a sidebar with navigation options like "Matthew 24-25", "Search", "Help", "About", and "Logout". The overall layout is clean and organized, designed for easy comparison between chapters.
